* Your application documents will be sent to the German Aerospace Academy, an Institute of the Steinbeis Hochschule Berlin who is responsible for admission and certification. The registration will be handled following the rule “first come, first serve”. Because the TransNetAero Project is transnational, the places for the course are limited to 3 participants from each of the following countries until the 3 October 2014: Netherlands, Switzerland, Germany, France, UK and Belgium. After this date, unallocated place become open to any country following the “first come, first serve” rule. Registrations have to be submitted directly to the CESI center of Saint-Nazaire. Information regarding your acceptance to the course will be sent until 30 October 2014.
