* What is TransNetAero?

TransNetAero (Transnational Network for Aerospace) (TNA) is a network of organisations in six European aerospace regions and small countries which are going to work together and share their resources so that aerospace industry suppliers in each of them can get expert support and knowledge from the others to help them be better prepared to succeed against global scale competition. The participants are Wallonia (Belgium), Normandy and Pays de Loire (France), Baden-Württemberg (Germany), the Netherlands, Switzerland and the Midlands (United Kingdom). Participation in this TNA course is free of charge, thanks to the support of the EU Interreg IV B programme and cofounding of the Dutch provinces Flevoland, Overijssel en Zuid-Holland and the Dutch Ministry of Economic Affairs.
